

St. Bernardine of Siena
Adult Faith Enrichment

presents

Women Deacons:
Past, Present, Future

with

Phyllis Zagano, Ph.D.

Whatever happened to women deacons? Will women be ordained soon?
A clear presentation of the past, present and future possibilities for ordaining women as deacons, considered separately from the notion of the diaconate as a track to the priesthood.

Sunday, June 12
7:30 p.m.

St. Bernardine of Siena Parish Hall
24410 Calvert Street
Woodland Hills
(818) 888-8200

Dr. Phyllis Zagano is an internationally known expert on women in ministry, especially on women deacons. Author of 13 books and over 200 articles and reviews, she is senior research associate-in-residence and adjunct professor of religion at Hofstra University, Hempstead, New York and a regular columnist for the National Catholic Reporter. A graduate of Marymount College, Tarrytown, New York, she holds the Ph.D. from the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Her newest book is Women & Catholicism: Gender, Communion, and Authority (Palgrave Macmillan). Her books Women Deacons: Past, Present, Future (Paulist) and Women in Ministry: Emerging Questions on the Diaconate (Paulist) will appear next winter.